

ALERT -- FAA Overhaul Mark-up Scheduled for July 9

We wanted to make you aware that Congressional Leadership indicated this morning that the House Transportation and Infrastructure Committee will introduce their version of the FAA Reauthorization bill next week and hold hearings and a Committee "mark-up" on Thursday, July 9. This is the first step in the reauthorization process, which needs to be completed or extended by September 30, 2015 when the current law expires. The last reauthorization process was extended by nearly 10 years, so we will keep you updated on discussions of timeline for final passage.

N.O.I.S.E. has been actively engaged in this process and will continue to work with the Congressional Quiet Skies Caucus as well as Leadership in Congress to insure that the legislative priorities of N.O.I.S.E. are reviewed and considered. The N.O.I.S.E. Board is also requesting that the Committee hold a hearing dedicated to community noise impacts. The Quiet Skies Caucus has made this request as well, at our urging. We will keep you updated on developments and upcoming opportunities for our organization and airport-adjacent communities to engage with the relevant committees and highlight our priorities and these issues of critical importance.

Please do not hesitate to contact us if you have any questions or concerns.
